Court Courier.

The District Court commenced its session in this city yesterday, Hathaway presiding As some feeling seemed to exist in favor of an immediate adjournment of the court on account of the prevalence of the cholera in the city the Judge submitted the question to the members of the Bar and the Jurors to ascertain their wishes on the subject A large majority being found opposed to such an adjournment, the court announced their intention to proceed as usual with the Docket

☞ Capt S Rich has this season succeeded in bringing into fair eating order the Sweet Water grape in open air E L Hamlin Esq has brought the Isabella Grape into a fair eating state by out door culture this season Both these grapes, however, need in this climate, a covering of glass in order to have them in perfection

☞ The editor of the Calais Journal is entirely mistaken in what he says about the Bangor Whig, or he intentionally bears false witness against it in what he says of its course relative to Gen Taylor before his nomination

It is said tomato vines, taken up before frosted, put in pots, treated as house plants, and set out in the spring will bear earlier and richer fruit for several successive years

Letter from California.

Stanislaus Dig'ngs, July 4 1849

On arriving at the mines my first business was to find Hannibal, an undertaking that often reminded me of Japhet in search of his father However I succeeded finally, and having succeeded in this, had no doubt I should succeed in finding the hidden treasure For the first six weeks I dug gold with my own hands, with varied success, sometimes getting four a day, sometimes 8 or none But it is the severest work I ever engaged in You have to dig in the mud and water the soil is clayey and heavy the beds of the creeks are filled with immense rocks, all of which have to be removed to get at the gold which is always on the ledge at the bottom The amount of hard work which I performed in six weeks with my own hands, would astonish even an Irishman in New England But it is a fascinating kind of work, for when you arrive at the bottom if you are successful you may get 6, 12, 18, or even more ounces of smooth shining gold, in pieces varying from one do far, to one hundred dollars But in spite of the fascinations of the employment I did not fail to quit it the moment I found an opening to make something in an easier way

It is now six weeks since I made a business arrangement with one of the oldest and richest American inhabitants of California to carry on a trade with the Indians I seldom see a white man save one of my partners who is with me part of the time and he has an Indian wife Our ranchero or encampment contains about 200 Indians of whom all but the young and inferior go out daily to dig In the evening they bring in their treasure, sometimes $8 and some times $50, and exchange it for meat, flour, sugar, clothing &c

I have nothing to do until 5 o'clock P M when they begin to come in and our trade commences, and for two hours or more my company presents as busy a scene as you would wish to see By dark my work is over and I am left to converse with myself and my friends far away It is in such hours of solitude, which make up most of my time here, that I feel the benefit of my travels and observations Recollect one of other chums and days come upon me and I have peopled this beautiful valley and the noble panorama of mountains around me, in a manner the most pleasing and social I have erected a new world here for myself out of all that is beautiful and good among the debris of the old The Indians about me although last year wild and rather savage, are docile and now clothed and half civilized They are as harmless and agreeable a people as possible We have the pleasantest intercourse imaginable in our trading I keep them constantly laughing and shouting either by singing to them, or by my murderous attempts upon their language They are great mimics and take me off on all occasions not omitting my peculiarity of pronunciation as to the letter R

They use to steal from me at first, but having made a public example of two by whipping them severely they have become more cautious In fact they will not now touch the smallest article of mine, wherever it may be found I am teaching them too the arts of life At first the men, and women too, used to come to me to mend their clothes, and in some instances to stitch and at the same time taught them to do such things for themselves They are quite apt, and many of them can now sew even better than myself—which is remarkable—seeing that I have practised it more or less for every so many years! Their language is simple and I have learned enough for trading purposes. They use no firearms, but still depend upon their bows and arrows They have ceased to hunt and fish, but all dig gold They have never cultivated the soil in any way Formerly all of them, and many even now, just as our ancestors ground and baked, and likewise a kind of clover like our red clover which they pick on the prairies

But you wish to hear something more about the gold digging This is a very difficult subject Last year fortunes were made in a few weeks Now, from appearances it will take years to do the same The masses of gold upon the surface have been generally gathered up by the Pioneers, and those who come after, find a different business I do not think that in the months of May, June, July and August, the diggers will average $6 dollars a day taking all the mines together, while it costs to live from two to four dollars to live The business to be profitable must hereafter be conducted on regular mining principles, which the people here now are neither fitted nor inclined to adopt. Nor have they proper tools or machinery In the fall when the waters are down and the bars in the rivers laid bare, I have no doubt that the amount dug will be immense But the harvest will be short, for the laborers are many

As to the amount of gold in the country I believe it to be inexhaustible The sources of it are undoubtedly the mountains in the vicinity of the Pacific where it is now found When these mountains are pierced enormous quantities will be thrown into circulation This however must be a gradual work, There is no danger of such an inundation as some have apprehended: one that will completely change the currents of trade and the relative value of articles of commerce As for the country in other respects, it is fit for nothing All the lower orders of vegetable life are dried up and dead for seven or eight months, so that neither grazing nor cultivation is practicable Gold is the only product that can be obtained from it The extent of the gold region is yet unascertained E W

Cholera Statistics.

We have been somewhat amused in our intercourse with the good citizens of Bangor, during the past week, to hear the various speculations on the subject of Cholera, and especially to hear the friends of the various modes of treatment, extol their success, or the success of their favorite physician We have wondered at this, from the fact that the disease has been so mortal, and none seem to admit of success except it be under their own favorite system of practice

We are led to inquire why it is that we have to lament this sad though most manifest deficiency in medical science? It seems to me that there is but one prominent cause of this, and that is that our physicians, in their observations, researches and reasonings, are too superficial They have not sufficient regard for first and fixed principles, which alone are the basis upon which the external acts of the disease may be explained Is it not a notorious fact, that physicians, in the investigation of the pathology and treatment of the disease, have, for the most part, groped their way along by blind experiment—mere empiricism? And is not this true of most forms of disease of the present day?

The great body of Allopathic physicians, have confined themselves to the collection of the most superficial facts, which perhaps on minute inspection would be found to differ more or less, in the case of every individual patient They have not returned to first principles, to the foundation of all medical knowledge—hence have arisen the different and conflicting theories, as based upon the different phases of the disease, and the effects of specific modes of treatment, occurring most prominently in the practice of different physicians

Witness the remarks of your correspondent, D McR, a few weeks since in your paper, this 'positive symptoms and positive treatment, were pompously set forth as true in all their features, and as though that course would surely put an end to the disease at once But we learn that your citizens were not quite so ready to believe in the "positive treatment" there do ser bed

But it is not the object of this communication to point out the errors of others, but simply to inquire if there is no way for us to come at the relative success that has been adopted by the various methods of treatment of the Cholera during its prevalence in this city Is there no means by which our city authorities can obtain the desired statistics?

Among the contrary opinions which now prevail, not even an approximate estimate can be gained It seems as if the profession, as well as the community and the world ought to be well acquainted with the most successful treatment of this fearful epidemic which has now ceased to be a happy to say, disappeared from amongst us.

As the advocates of each method of treatment claim the greater success, this is a matter of some importance that we should know which method will bear the test of statistical scrutiny and prove it to be the best for this formidable disease

If the Homœopathic practice has been as successful as its friends contend, it is surely of the greatest moment that this fact be published to the four winds, that we may all quit our fears, and when never this dreaded epidemic appears we have only to take an infinitesimal dose of arsenic, veratrum, cuprum, &c., and quiet our minds, and bid defiance to the monster, even when he shows himself in his most ghastly form

If the Allopathic treatment shall show itself to be superior to all others, we have only to call for the man of scientific skill, who has the boasted knowledge of four thousand years at his command, and quietly submit to our fate, let it be life or death

If the Thomsonian practice shall prove itself the most efficacious, it is "give the devil his due" and provide ourselves with lobelia, cayenne and steam So with the other practices of the day, Give all a chance to place in an official form the success of their treatment in this epidemic, as it has appeared in this city during the

Interesting to Navigators.

We are glad to learn that our government has determined to send out a rational vessel to test the accuracy of the views of Lieut Maury in relation to the winds and currents on the coast of South America, north of Rio Janeiro The Philadelphia North American says —

"The U S sloop of war Taney has been ordered by the Secretary of the navy, to proceed to the coast of South America, for the purpose of testing the truth of Lt Maury's Wind and Current Charts It is alleged that along South America vessels which sail close in shore have the benefit of a strong westerly breeze, by taking advantage of it they are enabled to shorten the distance at least one thousand miles It is customary in our commercial marine, to take the north east trade winds which carry the vessel near the Cape de Verde Islands, where the south east trade winds are met By these latter they are enabled to go to Rio, whence they pursue their voyage in a direct line to the Horn The route by the Cape de Verdes is an obtuse angle, and if the theory of Lieut Maury is correct, vessels may sail in a direct line to Rio The question to be tested is a most important one, and we shall look for the result of the inquiries of the officers of the Taney with great interest

Another object in sending the Taney to the South American Coast, is to test the strength of the eddy currents and their bearing Our merchant vessels have been frequently and disastrously delayed in their northward voyages by them, and it is time that information of a reliable character was had as to their nature, their extent, and the means of avoiding them"

Resignation of Gen. Cass.

The following from the Chicago Tribune, seems to confirm a similar statement made some days ago

"We understand from reliable authority that Gen Cass will resign his seat in the Senate during the ensuing winter The Michigan Legislature having instructed him to vote for the Proviso, he proposes waiting until that question comes up when he will make a great speech against Col Benton and the Proviso, and then resign"

To keep a stove bright by two applications a year make a weak blue water, and mix your British lustre with it, perhaps two teaspoonfuls to a gill of alum water, let the stove be cold, brush it with the mixture, then take a dry brush and rub the stove till it is perfectly dry Should any part before polish up be so dry as to look gray, moisten it with a wet brush, and proceed as before said

CAUTION TO DRUGGISTS AND THE PUBLIC

The unparalleled and astonishing efficacy of Dr Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry in all the diseases for which it is recommended—during many years after the skill of the best physicians was unavailing—has affected a large and increasing demand for it This fact has caused unprincipled counterfeiters and imitators to palm off spurious mixtures, of similar name and appearance, for the genuine Balsam

BE NOT DECEIVED BY IMPOSTERS,

The public should be careful to get the genuine article as the imitations and counterfeits, prepared by those who know nothing of medicine, or of the diseases of the human system are entirely useless and dangerous

EXAMINE CLOSELY BEFORE PURCHASING

The genuine Balsam is put up in bottles, with the words "DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, Phila," blown in glass,—each bottle bearing a label on the front, with the signature of

I. WISTAR, M D

This will be enveloped hereafter with a wrapper copy right secured 1844, on which will always appear the written signature of I. JEVITT. Any one counterfeiting the label or wrapper, or forging the signature of the General Agent, will be punished with the utmost rigor of the law

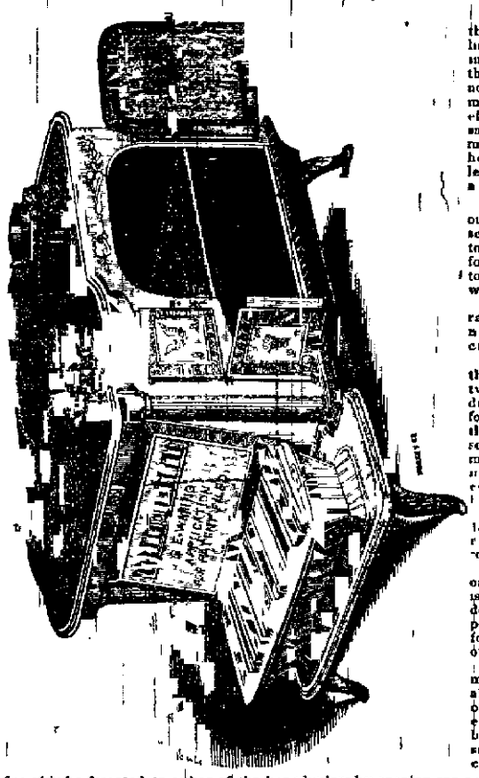
REPUBLIC AIR-TIGHT COOK STOVE.



THE subscribers, in offering their new Stove called the "Republic" of which the annexed engraving is a correct representation to the consideration of the public, do not deem it necessary to recommend it as superior to every thing else, or a cure for all the ills of life, satisfied that persons of good judgment and correct taste will not withhold their approbation, but will, at least on trial find it all they want of a good cooking stove

Believing that those who thoroughly examine their stove will not seek a better one they would offer to those unacquainted with it the following reasons why they expect to share freely the favors of those who wish to purchase

1st General economy of arrangement, comely proportions, ornamental appearance, and heavy castings

2 The particular construction of the top plate, by which either of the two front holes may be enlarged in diameter from three to four inches, for the accommodation of brass kettles, or other large bottomed vessels, or they may be united by removing the two lift out pieces, form an oblong oval twenty one inches by eleven in the No 8 or 8 inch plate, thereby affording a place for the reception of an unusually large vessel Boiler at the same time exposing the exposed part of the top from the intense heat of the fire

3 A drop front door, with an air or draft shoe by which the furnace is supplied with heated air This door, when let down to a horizontal position, makes a convenient platform for a broiler toasting iron, or other utensil

4 The flues or fire passages are much larger than in ordinary stoves, and rounded wherever the direction of the current is changed, thereby ensuring a full and free draft over behind and under the oven, the smoke pipe when the dampers are closed Or the whole force of the fire may be directed to either of the boiler holes by opening one or the other of the two swing dampers that control the passage from the fire to the pipe The damper turns pass through the top plate or either side of the pipe collar The top is made extra strong by a double flange cast on the under, extending from the front to the pipe collar, and, resting on the oven top, divides the current from the fire in its passage to the descending flues, or to the exit pipe when the dampers are open

5 The upper side of the oven top is insulated and coated with a non conducting cement thereby protecting the top of the oven from too intense a heat—a difficulty much complained of in reversible flue stoves

6 The oven bottom is made thoroughly hot by the large space allowed to the flues through which the heat passes in its way to the exit pipe and also by the spiculæ on the stove bottom, coated like the oven top with non conducting cement which prevents the loss of heat downwards

Also, every description and pattern of cook stoves to be found in this market, without any exceptions together with every article usually kept in a stove establishment

A. N. FRANCIS'S
Hot Blast Air Tight
COOKING STOVE.
The Greatest Invention of the Age.

A New Pattern for 1849.

AMONG a host of competitors, THIS STOVE, for its superior advantages, took the first premium at the American institute, city of New York, at the Hartford County Fair Connecticut, at the Worcester Co. Fair Massachusetts and Franklin Institute, Philadelphia

Chief very important improvement in this Stove is the patent Broiling Chamber, (see cut) by which broiling is done to perfection in from four to six minutes retaining its juices and giving steaks the same fine flavor and pleasant twang of the best charcoal broil (it being equally well adapted to toasting roasting or frying) with the draft to the fire arch passing through the broiling chamber and effectually carrying off the scent which usually arises from Broiling The broiling department is always ready to be operated by the same fire required for other purposes, and not interfering with any other part of the cooking

The flues being the entire width and passing directly around the oven applies the heat to all parts alike The oven for Baking is not equaled by any Stove in use Warranted as above for thirty days.
